CONTEMPT FOR OUR NATIONALITY

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughes Kelly, of New York, and Joseph Smith, of Lowell, Mass., who sailed July 15 for Liverpool with $50,000 of the Irish relief fund to distribute among the sufferers from the recent revolution in Ireland, returned Saturday on the same steamer, having been refused permission to land by the British authorities. Mr. Kelly issued the following statement Saturday evening: "Messrs. Thomas Hughes Kelly, of New York, and Joseph Smith, of Lowell, Mass., sailed from New York on the American line steamship Philadelphia for Liverpool for the purpose of distributing the Irish relief fund in Ireland. They were provided with American passports issued by the State Department and used by the British Consul General in New York. Before the issue of the passports George Gillespie, of New York, attorney for Mr. Kelly and Chairman of the Irish Executive Committee of the Irish Relief Fund, was placed in possession of brief biography of Messrs. Kelly and Smith for the information and guidance of the State Department, and he had several telephone interviews with Mr. Pulk, counsel of the State Department, and advised him of the purpose of the visit of Messrs. Kelly and Smith to Ireland, and their character and reputation had been discussed by him with the British Ambassador in Washington, apparently in a manner satisfactory to all concerned.

"The party sailed from New York July 15 and arrived in Liverpool July 24. The Philadelphia was berthed in the Canada dock and the passengers were assembled in the dining saloon for examination before disembarkation. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly and Mr. Smith were called after a time by numbers given them (132, 133, 168) and invited to a corner of the dining saloon, where their passports and papers were demanded and given over to E. N. Cooper, aliens' officer. Messrs. Kelly and Smith were then taken to their cabins by detectives and subjected to personal search of the minutest character; their pockets emptied, pockets searched, papers, cards, letters, note books, etc., scrutinized and read, and their arms, legs and body felt, to ascertain if anything was concealed about their person. It was the worst of examination that arrested criminals are usually subjected to. The detectives then conducted them to the dock where their baggage was, and they were ordered to open it, and where it was examined in great detail. The baggage of Mrs. Kelly was subjected to the same scrutiny and minute inspection of her private letters and papers being examined and read, the whole transaction being singularly lacking in decency, propriety or any consideration for the feelings or rights of the examined. We were then returned to the dining saloon of the ship, where we were subjected to an oral examination and much cross-questioning by Mr. Cooper, aliens' officer, and Capt. Gunniss, of the King's Liverpool Regiment, and Major Money, of the same regiment, in a fashion that savored of the police court lawyer and practitioner. There were several other persons there who appeared to be friends of the examining officials and amused spectators of our humiliating treatment. We were asked why three persons were appointed to distribute the Irish relief fund, when Cooper was of the opinion that a less number would be sufficient. Why were we interested in the Irish poor when none existed? What particular class of poor did we propose to help, and how? Who constituted the American committee and how were the funds collected? Our letters of identification bearing the names of the committee were before them at the time. Did the Irish relief fund originate as a movement with the American hierarchy or were they drawn into it by others?

"Mr. Smith was asked many questions as to his profession and employment, what he was doing now, what papers he was associated with now and in the past? Was his acceptance of the duty of distributing the Irish relief fund merely a method of getting a free vacation or was he along to watch the other members of the committee and they him. The tone and method of the examination all through was distinctly nasty, sneering, insulting and humiliating. Mr. Kelly was subjected to much the same line of impertinence, and his bills, accounts, check books, memoranda and private correspondence were minutely gone over and letters of an obviously private character and intimate nature were read with smiles, nods and whispered comments and passed on to the next. This sort of thing went on for two hours or more, and then the officials rested from their labor. Some ten minutes later we were handed printed forms filled in pencil and signed by E. M. Cooper, stating that we were re-permission to land under instructions from the Secretary of State. They were handed to us by Cooper.

"Inasmuch as these instructions had been issued some four days prior to our arrival in port and were in Cooper's possession two days before we reached Liverpool, the ordeal we were subjected to on the ship—the search of our persons and baggage and the humiliating examination by the officials—was a deliberate, coldly calculated and premeditated insult and humiliation, MADE ALL THE MORE INTOLERABLE SINCE IT TOOK PLACE ON BOARD THE AMERICAN SHIP AT WHOSE STERN THE AMERICAN FLAG WAS FLYING. The incident proves the existence on American soil of an active system of British espionage, since the questions in many ways showed a knowledge of activities, harmless under any government, and entirely proper and lawful under ours, that could only have been gathered and sent to London by agents and spies anxious to magnify the importance and distort the significance of the data collected and to misrepresent and discredit those who are engaged in work antipathetic to some policy temporarily popular and official in England.

"Refusal to permit us to land in England and to compel our detention on shipboard was a prearranged matter, and our treatment merely an expression of British official contempt for our nationality and of antagonism to our mission of mercy. Later in the day Mr. Kelly wished to cable George Gillespie, of New York, advising him of our detention, but was refused permission to do so by Cooper, aliens' officer, who is also the censor in Liverpool. As the cablegram could in no manner be dangerous to the safety of the realm, it was accepted by us as merely another evidence of punitive intentions toward us. We were held prisoners on the Philadelphia for eleven days, while she was being coated, painted, repaired and placed in the dry dock, and it was certainly a real prison for Mrs. Kelly, as the ship was overrun by Liverpool dock hands and others in a pretty rough sort. Mr. Washington, the American Consul, was given permission to ask us to his home under conditions, but we did not care to impose on his hospitality and kindness, and wished to accept of courtesy from the British Government, it being determined that we could not proceed on the mission for which we came. During our entire stay of eleven days in Liverpool and our return to the United States not a single message or offer of courtesy came from Capt. Candy, of the Philadelphia, nor did he deign to notice us in any way. Capt. Candy is British, a nominal American citizen, but the atmosphere of his ship is distinctively anti-American."

SOUTH AMERICA AROUSED.

News has just reached this country from Rosario, Argentina, that the numerous Irish population throughout South America have joined with their brethren in the United States in the severest condemnation of the British executions of the Irish prisoners of war. The defeat of the home rule plan has further intensified feeling among this class of emigrants. Protest meetings have been held in various cities and anti-British resolutions have been passed without the interference of the Government. The declaration of the Irish Republic has been read under the monuments of South American revolutionaries who established republics. The Irish-Argentinians have been foremost in the agitation for Irish freedom and the Irish colors were worn in the great celebration of the centenary of the Argentine Republic. A collection is being taken up by the South American Irish committees for the relief of the rebel families and victims in Ireland, and many newspapers are advocating the Irish national cause.

PRIEST FIFTY YEARS.

The Rev. Nicholas Ryan last week passed the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. Father Ryan, who is now chaplain of the O'Leary Home for Old Men, was formerly stationed at St. Thomas Asylum. Learning by accident of the event, Sister Mary Martha, Superior at the asylum, arranged a pleasing jubilee entertainment for last Tuesday in honor of Father Ryan that was greatly enjoyed by the guests and the small boys the venerable chaplain loved while there.

OBLIGATION ALL SHOULD REALIZE

In his essay on "Eugene de Guerin" Matthew Arnold has told us of the ennobling and inspirational effect of Catholicism upon the character of that individual work which that individual person forms. It is true he could not understand the real essence of Catholicism, the real final reason for its nobility; but he does say that in it there is "something European, august and imaginative," while in Protestantism he finds to a great degree "something provincial, mean and prosaic." He contrasts the effect which this elevating influence of Catholic atmosphere and traditions has upon the life and writings of Middle de Guerin with the effect of Protestantism upon an equally sincere poet. In the acts and symphonies of the latter there is not the vision or sense of beauty or depth of feeling that the former always shows.

In a not too sympathetic review this attitude of Catholicism has again been dwelt upon by a recent writer in speaking of the work of the great English poet, John Milton; the poet who, he says, "rejuvenated the verse scold imported from Italy." The great source of Milton's inspiration, so we learn, was Catholicism. "It is this sympathy with Catholicism and the Medieval which explains the presence in 'Paradise Lost' of an Asselmannian theory of the Atonement. It is this sympathy which accounts for the strange intermingling of allegory with the historicity of the poem; an allegorizing tendency which is scarcely inferior to that of Gregory the Great or Guillaume de Lorris, and which stirred Addison to utter astonishment."

"It is not necessary," this critic goes on to say, "to believe with Mr. Barnes that he was a Catholic at heart and died in that faith in order to realize his indebtedness to the old religion. His grandfather was a Catholic and his brother became one; and the fragments of emotional sympathy still lived in the determined intellectual opponent of the Papacy." Chateaubriand in his "Genius of Christianity" has cited Milton's poetic efforts as an example of the happy effect of Christianity upon the genius of the world. And now we know that the essence of this thought and inspiration came from that pure form of Christianity, the Catholic church. Catholics should learn to understand the beauty and nobility of their religion, not alone in a spiritual sense but from a natural viewpoint. They should seek, too, to reveal this beauty of their church to those who live about them. It is an obligation which should not be allowed to pass.

ELECTED MASTER GENERAL.

Last week the General Chapter of the Dominican order met in Freiburg, Switzerland, to elect a Master General. Very Rev. Father Thirsling, of Holland, was elected by a unanimous vote to fill the position of Master General. This honor is the highest one bestowed in the Dominican order. Very Rev. Father Thirsling is a native of Holland. He was three times Provincial in his province, and was also, on one or two occasions, General Visitor of the order in North America, South and Central America. He is a man of great learning and of high administrative ability.

GOLDEN JUBILEE.

Brother Isadore, of the Xaverian Brothers, who is stationed at Baltimore, but who is well known and loved by thousands of former pupils here, will celebrate his golden jubilee here on August 28 and 29. At a meeting of the St. Xavier's Alumni Association Tuesday evening in St. Xavier's College hall the following committee were selected to arrange for a banquet to Brother Isadore at one of the local hotels on August 29: Thomas D. Cline, Alphonsus Obegschinger, Frank A. Geher, Charles J. Crush, E. J. Conney, Thomas Hines and W. P. McDonogh.

DOMINICAN MISSION.

There will be a two weeks' mission at St. Louis Bertrand's church, beginning Sunday, September 10, the first week for women and the second for men. Rev. J. L. Flinnerty and Rev. V. G. Cleary will conduct the exercises. Very Rev. Father Thirsling, who has just returned from his vacation, announces that the mission will be conducted as a preliminary to the celebration of the golden jubilee of the parish, which takes place October 10, and that the mission will prepare the parishioners spiritually for that celebration. St. Louis Bertrand's parish was organized in October, 1866, but the church was not dedicated until three years later.

GOOD MAN GONE.

Sunday night the West End was saddened by learning of the death of one of its oldest and most respected residents, Albert S. Robertson, at his residence, 654 South Thirty-first street. Deceased was born seventy-two years ago in Harrison county, but had lived in Louisville for over half a century, being engaged in the contracting business until his retirement eight years ago. While a young man he married Miss Emma J. Lighton, their union being blessed by the following children, all of whom are living: Ex-Senator Samuel L. Williams, Albert, George M., Charles E., M. J., Richard and Harry E. Robertson and Mrs. Henry Michael, Mrs. Alex. Cranna, Mrs. E. M. M. of Owensboro and Misses Mary and Agnes Robertson. A lifelong Democrat, Mr. Robertson was a pioneer member of the Twelfth Ward Club and was an earnest worker for his party. He was an active member and regular attendant of Holy Cross church, where the funeral was held Wednesday morning, Rev. Father Brey conducting the solemn services.

CONGRESS WILL ACT.

Congressman W. S. Bennett, of New York, says that if President Wilson doesn't act in regard to the Great Britain blacklist, Congress will, and he is now preparing a bill to that end. Congressman Bennett discusses the situation as follows:

"It is plain that so far as the South American situation is concerned this blacklisting is purely and simply a trade bludgeon to prevent the United States merchants from securing any share of the South American trade. Great Britain insists upon retaining all of the trade, that done formerly by Germany as well as her own share. Now any one who tries to acquire any share of that trade is blacklisted. I know of a dozen instances, totally unconnected, either directly or indirectly, with the European war, where American firms have been prevented from trading with South America. American firms can not secure ships to carry goods to Argentina or Brazil without the consent of the British Government. A firm, straightforward assertion of the heretofore proudly maintained right of the American merchant to trade where and with whom he pleases made at this time by the Federal Government should soon put a stop to this situation. If it does not we can secure the ships and convey them by naval vessels and maintain our commercial rights at any cost."

TOOK NEEDED REST.

Among the visitors registered for needed rest last week at West Baden Springs were the Rev. Thomas W. White, Rev. John T. Hill, Henry Harold and Michael F. Hill, chief clerk for the L. and N. railroad at Niath and Broadway. Their sojourn was both beneficial and enjoyable.

SOME LOCAL POLITICAL GOSSIP

Democrats throughout the country are becoming more and more pleased with the situation from a national standpoint, the gathering at the Kentucky State campaign headquarters this week all returning the same reports as those being made at national headquarters, and they are to this effect. Wilson's gain of ground is not so noticeable but the loss by Hughes is becoming glaring and the Republican campaign managers are at their wits' end to stop the drift away from their candidate, but while they know the cause, yet it is another matter to remedy it. It is impossible to stop nominee Hughes from campaigning, yet they realize that in every speech he has made thus far the Republican cause has suffered. Not only to the Republicans has Hughes been a disappointment, but the public at large, that is the people of all parties or independents expected great things from the G. O. P. when he took the stump, and to say that they have suffered a shock is putting it mildly. Previous to the Republican convention in the role of the sphinx Hughes was especially strong, the Democrats hoping against hope that he would not be nominated, thinking it would be impossible to defeat him in the regular election.

The first blow came when his letter of acceptance was read, which was very tame, consisting principally of a rehearsal of the Mexican trouble and in which he advocated nothing new or suggested a plausible change of policy with that country. The Republicans then excused this by saying "Wait until he gets on the stump." Everyone waited, but to date Hughes has been the biggest fizzle as a national leader in a long stretch of political history. In the role of a sphinx he was doubly strong, but as in the case of many just as soon as he opened his mouth, as the Irishman would say, he put his foot in it. His speeches have been the addresses of a chronic kicker or grouch, advancing nothing new, dodging the important issues, and are very much of the type of campaign speeches that one would expect to hear from a candidate for Constable or country Magistrate, instead of the ringing or intellectual addresses of a candidate for the highest office in the gift of the nation. No wonder the Republicans are becoming alarmed, as it takes no great shakes of a political prophet to see that Hughes is losing support at an alarming rate, and if the Old Guard does not muzzle him soon the pulpit will be needed to revive interest.

Another cause for worry in the G. O. P. ranks is that the Taft and Roosevelt factions are not working together very harmoniously. Roosevelt and Perkins trying to eliminate the Old Guard from the party councils, while Penrose, Crane, Barnes and others are continually asking why Roosevelt is tolerated. They say he didn't bring the Progressives back to the party and that his action made the Bull Moose sorer at the Republican party than before. Roosevelt is interested in Hughes only to the extent of getting a good foothold back in the party and bring enough of his close friends in the party to control the machinery and secure the nomination in 1920. Then we will see a repetition of the 1912 convention, only the shoe will be on the other foot. Roosevelt and his friends in control of the machinery will play the same role as played by the Taft men then, riding over their opponents' rough shod. It would not be surprising to see this fight crop out in real earnest before the coming election, the Old Guard being ready to knife Hughes if Roosevelt is to be the power behind the throne in the event of Hughes' election, while "Teddy" will scuttle the ship if he is not the dictator.

Despite the effort to sidetrack next year's political races talk will not down, "Bob" Hughes now being mentioned for Mayor on account of his efforts in behalf of the million dollar factory fund, while Col. Pat Calahan has his boosters, a member of the General Council stating that the varnish magnate was rumored as a sure starter. Loraine Mix and County Judge Greene will be the contestants in the county Judgeship race. Al Euler and Dan Russell will oppose each other for the nomination for Sheriff, while Allen Smith is being mentioned as the only starter for County Assessor. Will Dennis, Clay Hall and O'Brien, Squire Ben Schuman, Joseph Nevin, Andrew Ludwig and Squire H. C. Crawford.

DR. JOHN B. MURPHY.

America and the world mourns the death of its most famous surgeon, Dr. John B. Murphy, of Chicago, who expired suddenly last Friday at Mackinac Island. The famous surgeon, who recently was knighted by Pope Benedict for his researches in surgery, was only fifty-eight years old. His pioneer surgery in cases of appendicitis, later in the treatment of other intestinal disorders and more recently in the serum neutralization of rheumatoid and other joint troubles, has made him known all over the world. His funeral took place Tuesday morning, and was one of the largest seen in Chicago for years. Leaders of America praised Dr. Murphy's thoughts and deeds, and the following expressions from President Woodrow Wilson voices the thousands of others received:

"Mrs. John B. Murphy: May I not express to you and your family my deepest sympathy in your great trial in the death of Dr. Murphy? The medical world loses one of its foremost figures and our country sustains a real loss. I am sure that I express the feeling of the whole country when I mourn his going. Woodrow Wilson."

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS.

The Central Committee of the Catholic Knights of America had an enthusiastic meeting Friday night, William Cushing occupying the chair. A letter from President Gandin to Gen. M. Reicher was read, telling of the formation of new branches and giving encouragement to the local knights. A proposition for a consolidation of a number of branches met with much favor and was referred to the officers. Treasurer Charles Falk and Secretary Henry Schulten reported the results of the Jasper excursion, the most successful held in recent years. With the end of warm weather much activity is promised, and an earnest effort will be made to increase the membership. Several short talks were made and praise was given Capt. Oscar Maier for his efforts in behalf of the Uniform Rank and the Central Committee.

HONOR BLESSED VIRGIN.

The feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary on Tuesday was celebrated in solemn manner at all the Catholic churches of the city Tuesday. Many thousands attended the masses, which were generally at the same hours as on Sunday.

SPEAKS FOR LABOR.

Most Rev. Archbishop Edward J. Hanna, of San Francisco, was chosen by the General Labor Day Celebration Committee as orator of the day at the Labor day exercises to be held at the Stadium in Golden Gate Park. Mayor James Rolph, Jr., is to be invited to officiate as Chairman. The decision to invite the Archbishop to deliver the oration is an innovation, as this duty heretofore has fallen to a labor leader.

Ex-Lieut. Gov. Edward J. McDermott will deliver the principal address at the Louisville Labor day celebration.

CARE FOR SIXTY THOUSAND

The golden jubilee of the foundation of the Convent of the Good Shepherd, Twenty-third and Bank streets, began yesterday and will continue until Monday. Friday was for the reverend clergy and religious only, today will be for benefactors of the convent; Sunday there will be a home feast for all those in the convent, and Monday will be in memory of the departed Sisters, children and benefactors and friends of the convent.

The celebrant of the solemn high mass on Friday was the Rev. Charles P. Raffo, assisted by Rev. Dr. Suchbimann and Rev. O. P. Ackerman. Right Rev. Louis O'Donoghue preaching the sermon. The Dominican fathers will have charge of the services today and celebrate the solemn high mass with a sermon by Very Rev. T. J. Crowley, O. P., Prior of St. Louis Bertrand's church. Sunday high mass will be sung at 7 o'clock by Rev. J. P. Valley, O. P., chaplain of the Good Shepherd Convent, and on Monday at 6 o'clock a requiem high mass for the departed Sisters, children and benefactors by Rev. J. P. Valley. The children of St. Philomena's class will render all the singing, strictly Gregorian, in accordance with the Motu Proprio of our late Holy Father Pius X., of Holy memory.

This Convent of the Good Shepherd was founded in 1866 by Mother M. of St. Ignatius Ward, a branch house of the Convent of the Good Shepherd at Eighth and Madison streets in this city. A tract of eight acres of land was purchased, later five acres more were procured and a small house erected thereon, and a little band of Sisters were sent to found another fold of the Good Shepherd, adding one more to the folds which dot the world over, in North, South and Central America, Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and Oceania, making up a goodly band of nearly 10,000 Sisters of the Good Shepherd, nearly 4,000 in America, and all united under one head, a Mother General at the mother house at Angers, France. This good mother having under her care at the present time nearly 60,000 souls in the Good Shepherd convents throughout the world. This order was founded in 1651 by Blessed John Eudes, and the first colony came to America in 1842, and founded the first house of the order, the Convent of Right Rev. Bishop Flanagan, who ever held them in the highest esteem and greeted the first Sisters with, "I bless the day of your arrival in my diocese." Bishop Flanagan was ever a kind father and did all in his power to nurture the foundation then struggling for an existence. The annals of the order in Kentucky teem with the record of acts of more than fatherly kindness in their regard. The first colony of the order consisted of five brave young religious, the eldest the Superior, Mother M. des Anges, being but twenty-nine years of age, who braved the dangers of the Atlantic, and after a three months' voyage reached their destination Louisville on December 1, 1842, and founded the first house of the order on American soil—the historic Convent of the Good Shepherd at Eighth and Madison streets, this city. Later Mother M. des Anges was appointed to found a convent at Philadelphia, and after it was well established was recalled to Louisville as Mother Provincial, and died while holding that office at the convent at Twenty-third and Bank streets. At her death our late Bishop, Right Rev. William J. McCloskey, who knew full well the salutary qualities of this admirable mother, remarked that "We should not pry for her, but to her."

The little mustard seed sown at Twenty-third and Bank streets has grown until it has developed into an immense block of eight substantial, spacious buildings (and even then not enough of room for all who apply for admission), with beautifully laid out park-like grounds, which afford a safe and comfortable home for nearly four hundred persons, divided into three departments, one for dependent children rescued from unfavorable environments, or orphans, this department under patronage of St. Philomena; the second, St. Joseph's reformatory for women, each absolutely distinct from the other in every particular. Lately there has been added a school of domestic science, and last autumn an isolated infirmary for contagious diseases was erected, which makes the plant very complete.

RELIGIOUS AND PATRIOTIC.

The American Federation of Catholic Societies, which holds its fifteenth annual convention in New York City next week, is an organization formed of subordinate societies for the advancement of the civil, religious and social interests of Catholics. It will not interfere with the aims or objects of existing organizations. Such a union is desirable in order that Catholics may have a strong, closely-welded instrument for voicing Catholic opinion on all the great questions of the day, and its purpose is to advance the civil, social and religious interests of Catholics in the United States.

Catholic federation is not a political organization and does not control the political affiliation of its members. It asks no favors or privileges, but openly proclaims what is just and fair. It aims at the creation of sound public opinion on all important topics of the day; it stands for the Christian life of the nation itself; for the proper observance of Sunday; for the Christian education of youth; for the stamping out of immorality; for the sanctity and perpetuity of Christian marriage; for the safeguarding of the Christian home. It asserts the necessity of Christian principles in social and public life, in the State, in business, in all financial and industrial relations. It combats all errors which are in opposition to Christianity and threaten to undermine the very foundation of human society. It is willing to co-operate with all loyal citizens and with all civil and social energies which work for truth and virtue. It exposes falsehood and injustice, whether in misrepresentation of history, doctrine or principles of morality.

The aims of federation therefore are religious and patriotic; they are the interest of all American citizens, and especially of those who believe in a divine law-giver and in the revelation of a divine religion through Christ our Savior.

STRIKES ARE SERIOUS.

A strike is a very serious thing—serious for the corporations and men concerned and for the general public. That the workers have a good right to organize as the stockholders of a company is indisputable, but that those organizations should be antagonistic is not quite so clear. Rather we think they should be found working together for the common good. In the last analysis their interests are identical. Unfortunately, however, corporations do not appear to think so. Nay more, some corporations act as if they believed an employee has no right to entertain an opinion on any subject. There are few occupations more exacting, or that require greater coolness and nerve than that of a railroad man, and hence it is the duty of the company to see that the conditions of his employment have no irritating features. Day by day he holds the lives of thousands of people in the hollow of his hand and the public have a right to insist on his business environment being free from friction, that no disturbing influence be permitted to enter in his work since such tends to impair his efficiency. The proper adjustment of the relations between the railroads and their employes is the concern of everyone; but it lies with the managers and the men themselves to make the adjustment. It is to be hoped that President Wilson will succeed in effecting a satisfactory settlement of the issues that now divide the railroads and the four big brotherhoods.

HITS HUGHES HARD.

Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, of New York, President of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, in a statement issued last week compared the attitude of Charles E. Hughes toward suffrage to "the mental processes of a woman who marries a man to be rid of him." Mrs. Dodge says: "Patriotism at a price is the bane of our political life. Election day is not yet the day of Pentecost and it would leave the woman voter as it found the woman. The selfish women who seek their special ends today, whose shrill cry of 'suffrage first' is heard above the solemn tones of 'America first'—these women can not represent our womanhood by their votes any more than they represent it by their mistaken agitation today. They do not represent even the best of the suffragists." Mrs. Dodge's criticism is kind of hard on Hughes and will not have much effect on crazy "militant suffragettes."

BLUNDER OF REDMOND.

Many people express sorrow for John Redmond, the Irish leader in Parliament. Able, sincere and resourceful, it seemed for a time that he might occupy a conspicuous place in Ireland's Valhalla. He trusted Liberal statesmen and there was reason for his confidence in them up to the time that they entered into the unnatural alliance with the Tory wolves. Redmond made his fatal blunder when he did not defeat the traitor Liberals when they substituted scoundrels like Lansdowne and Carson for Morley and Burns.

TRAP TORIES FEAR.

Premier Asquith has stated emphatically that home rule will remain on the statute books, come what will, and since he is a past master of political finesse, the Tories are not without misgivings that in yielding so much of the responsibilities of government to them he has actually set a trap in which they will be hopelessly entangled when the time comes to apply the test of a general election.

SHOW MORE FEAR.

The extraordinary expenditure for preparedness makes necessary the extraordinary revenue legislation at Washington. As the older nations are passing through the red sea of slaughter, and are becoming weaker and more helpless, we are growing more afraid of them, and this year have increased our expenditures for the war preparations from $240,000,000 a year to $700,000,000 for 1916.

THE OUTLOOK BAD.

The reappointment of Baron Wimbomb as Lord Lieutenant of Ireland proves that the Government despairs of an immediate settlement of Irish affairs. The press has little or nothing to say this week about the Irish question. One thing Ireland can not suffer any worse treatment under the Lord Lieutenant than under Gen. Maxwell's military system.

Certain New York admirers of Theodore Roosevelt and Republicans of Connecticut who follow ex-President Taft are credited with booms for their election to the United States Senate. This information has caused quite a stir in Republican circles and may widen the breach in that party.

Senator Tom Taggart, of Indiana, may be a politician, but he shows that he is also a statesman in opposing the great waste of public funds. His warning is timely and should be heeded by the party in power.

Carson says the Germans are barbarians. This arch enemy of humanity has overlooked England's history.

PREPARE FOR JUBILEE.

Rev. Martin O'Connor and the members of St. Michael's congregation are busy with preparations for the golden jubilee celebration that takes place next month, an event that will be of interest to the Catholics of this city and diocese. Upon the morning of the jubilee there will be a parade through the streets of the parish, in which the Uniform Rank, Catholic Knights of America, Ancient Order of Hibernians and other Catholic societies have been invited and are expected to take part.

SCHOOL DEDICATION.

The dedication of St. Leo's new school at Highland Park will take place Sunday afternoon, September 3, at 3:30 o'clock. Right Rev. Bishop D. O'Donoghue, D. D., performing the dedication ceremonies. The sermon will be given by Rev. Q. W. Schumann, D. D., and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament by Very Rev. J. P. Cronin, V. G. This will also be the tenth anniversary of the dedication of St. Leo's church.

NICE RIVER TRIP.

Mackin Council will take its members and friends on another of its delightful "moonlite" rides up the river next Thursday night on the Homer Smith. Chairman Lick and the committee will leave nothing undone that would add to the pleasure of the trip. All Mackin's friends and the public are invited.

COMING EVENTS.

SOLDIER MASS OUTFIT.

Someone recently defined the American attitude toward the militia by the phrase, "You go fight, Steve. I'll hold your coat." The definition like all general applications, does not define with exactness in the present Mexican situation, for the man at home seems to be forgetful of the fact that the soldier at the Texas border has a coat to be held. And of the many duties that the crisis in American relations with Mexico has laid on those who stay at home one of the most urgent is that of giving aid for the spiritual welfare of the men who have assumed guard duty at the border. There are a very large number of Catholic soldiers among the regiment now stationed in the border States. The piety of these men in their attendance at mass has been highly edifying, although the conditions under which the chaplains have had to say mass have often been most difficult for celebrant and attendant. From the chaplains and from the soldiers themselves there has been neither complaint nor request, but the lack of proper mass outfits in nearly all the camps has aroused the Bishops of the dioceses in the border States to request the Catholic Church Extension Society missionary mass outfits for the chaplains in charge of the American soldiers. These missionary mass outfits contain everything necessary for the celebration of the mass. Because of their light weight, they may be easily carried from one place to another. Their cost is from $100 to $110. You should send what you can afford for this cause to the Catholic Church Extension Society, McCormack building, Chicago, Illinois.

DEFENDS JAMES.

Senator Martine, of New Jersey, Questions Criticism of Kentucky Senator.

The Kentucky Irish American editorially criticized our two Kentucky Senators, James and Beckham, for not voting on the resolution offered in behalf of clemency for Sir Roger Casement. In this connection the following letter was received:

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15, 1916.—Editor Kentucky Irish American, Louisville, Ky.—My Dear Sir: My attention has been called to an editorial in your paper entitled "Worth Remembering." I know you want to be fair, hence I write you. It is true that Senator James was absent from the Senate on public business when the final vote was taken on the Casement resolution, but justice compels me to say that I had the earnest advice and support of Senator James during every step I took regarding the Casement resolution. When I sought unanimous consent to bring my resolution before the Senate Senator James was most active in my aid and support. I have been very regular in attendance during the sessions of the Senate and truth compels me to say that I have never heard Senator James express an unkind or belittling word regarding Ireland or the Irish people. To the contrary, he has ever been the friend of the oppressed of every land. I trust you will give this correction a prominent place in your paper. With highest regards, I am, sincerely yours,

James E. Martine.

In explanation of the criticism appearing in the Kentucky Irish American the following is reprinted from the Chicago Tribune of August 6, under the head, "Only 380 Irish in America When Colonies Rebelled."

Washington, D. C. (Special)—Senator Phelan is in a bit of bad humor. He said the other day that most of the men who were in the ranks of the heroes—were Irish. And all of the heroes—were Irish. The Irish in America when they stood up for independence.

Collier's Washington Bureau reports that on the resolution introduced in the Senate by Senator Pittman, of Nevada, hoping that the British Government would extend clemency to Irish political prisoners, Senators James and Beckham are recorded as NOT VOTING.

Her funeral was held Sunday afternoon, attended by a large number of friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Eva Herriot, long a highly esteemed resident of this city, died of old age Saturday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Leezer, of Thirty-fourth and Kentucky streets. She is survived by Mrs. Leezer, another daughter, Mrs. John Arnold; four sons, Joseph, Andrew, Martin and Albert Herriot; thirty grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. Funeral services were held Monday morning from St. Peter's church, where the deceased had been a regular and devout communicant.

An estimable woman of St. Anthony's parish passed to her eternal reward early Monday morning when Mrs. Regina Evers, widow of Henry Evers, succumbed to stomach trouble at her home, 512 North Twenty-first street. Wednesday morning the funeral was held from St. Anthony's church, when many were present to pay respect and tribute to her memory.

A devoted servant of Almighty God was called to her eternal reward by the person of Mrs. Mary Hines, widow of Martin Hines, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas O'Brien, 2613 West Magazine street. For many years Mrs. Hines had lived in the West End. CLIFF HAVEN.

Following the example of Philadelphia and New York, the Bostonians set aside a week in which to hold special celebrations in honor of the Summer School Jubilee.

"Boston night" was the form taken by the family gathering on Sunday evening. The Rev. David J. Hickey, who presided, welcomed the assembled guests, and paid a stirring tribute to the part played by the Bostonians in the building up of the Summer School. Joseph J. Reilly, Ph. D., Chief Examiner of Boston, responded for his city. During the week some excellent lecture courses were given. Rev. Patrick McCormick, of the Catholic University at Washington, D. C., spoke on "Some Typical Educators of the Renaissance." The Rev. Thomas F. Coakley, D. D., of Pittsburgh, showed a deep knowledge of ecclesiastical history embracing the Avignon period and the Great Western Schism in his course on "The See of Peter in a Struggle for Freedom." Of great interest, too, was the course given by the Rev. William A. Livingston, A. M., of New York, on "The Legendary Period of Irish History." During Father Livingston's lectures an Irish flag presented by the New York Hibernians was displayed. On Monday evening the Hon. Thomas W. Churchill, of the Board of Education, New York, gave a lecture on "The New Education;" on Tuesday evening Mrs. Luna E. Van Zandt, of Buffalo, gave an illustrated lecture entitled "A Visit to Lourdes;" and on Thursday and Friday evenings Miss Eleanor Payez, of Brooklyn, gave piano recitals from classic, romantic and modern composers.

There were 300 delegates in the New York State convention at Schenectady this week.

R. J. Fleming will be the New Albany delegate to the State convention at South Bend, Ind.

The question of changing the meeting nights of Division 3 will be taken up Monday night.

Division 3 of St. Joseph, Mo., contributed $25 to the collection for relief of the sufferers in Ireland.

Division 4 now has about thirty candidates awaiting the degrees and will hold an initiation in the near future.

The Ladies' Auxiliary initiated forty candidates this week at the Wisconsin State convention at Oshkosh.

The largest State convention the order has yet held in California will open Monday at San Diego, closing on Thursday.

The Irish picnic of the Ancient Order at Milwaukee last Saturday was a great success, Pabst Park being crowded.

Rev. Father McCaffrey, the State Chaplain, will celebrate Mass at St. Patrick's church the morning of the State convention.

State President McBreen held a conference here Sunday with County President Connelly in regard to the State convention.

Indiana Hibernians had a great time at their State convention at South Bend this week. Mayor Keller gave them a hearty welcome.

Before the New York State convention adjourned Thursday at Schenectady there was an exemplification for a large class of candidates.

The Irish day of the Hibernians of Columbus, Ohio, last Wednesday brought together many thousands who enjoyed the speaking, the singing and the old Irish dances.

Monday evening Ladies' Auxiliary 1 of Minneapolis had a great celebration of their twenty-second anniversary, attended by large numbers from the other divisions.

Every member of Division 1 should attend the meeting next Thursday night. They will be called upon to decide the future of the division and all are wanted to vote.

Colorado Hibernians, at their State convention at Pueblo, will launch a movement to aid the Irish people reduced to poverty as a result of the recent uprising in Dublin.

The New Albany Ladies' Auxiliary will send Mrs. W. F. Atz and daughter, Miss Lillian Atz, and Miss Kate Cody as delegates to their State convention, which meets the last three days of August at South Bend.

STATIONS FOR MISSIONS.

Catholics who are interested in the missions—and what Catholic appreciates the beauties of his faith does not want to give it out to some poor soul—have chosen a very practical way of proving that interest. There are so many churches on the list of the Catholic Church Extension Society, who have been asking for Stations of the Cross, that the appeal has aroused the sympathy of many and donations have been coming in to the offices of the society to purchase stations and send them to some of the poor missions. Fifteen dollars will purchase a set of Stations. They are over fifty mission churches asking for them. The stations sent out by the society are very nice and neatly gotten up. They are greatly appreciated by the missionary fathers and their poor congregations. Donations for a set of Stations of the Cross to be sent to a mission church may be forwarded to the offices of the Catholic Church Extension Society, located in the McCormick building, Chicago.

LARGE ORGAN.

The work of erecting the new organ in St. James church is nearing completion. The organ is a large and fine one, and those who have heard it used are more than satisfied. The formal installation will take place next month and will be made a musical event of much interest.

VISIT TO CLASSMATE.

Rev. Father Angelo, C. P., of the Eastern province of the Passionist order, was here on a visit to the local monastery last week, and during his stay spent a couple of days with Rev. Father Fitzgerald, pastor of St. Leo's church at Highland Park, who was a former classmate. Father Angelo is located at Dunkirk, N. Y.

DECIDE FUTURE POLICY.

Division 1, A. O. H., will meet next Thursday night at Liederkranz Hall, when the members will vote on the future course of that body, many advocating a consolidation. All claims have been met, and therefore all are urged to be present and take part in the settlement of this and other important matters.

AMERICAN PRIESTHOOD.

In the year 1816, 100 years ago, there were eighty-five priests in the United States. This year, 1916, there are over 19,000.

WILL NOT HELP.

Ida M. Tarbell, social and economic writer, noted as the author of a series of articles concerning the Standard Oil Company, says she does not believe the vote will be a "panacea for the ills of women. I do not see how it will benefit them economically or any other way," she said.

SOUGHT NO REWARD.

The nuns who ministered to the wounded soldiers on the battlefields of the country did so from motives of divine charity. They sought no earthly reward and they received none. It is not in this world that charity meets its proper deserts. It may be well to erect monuments to the memory of these heroines, but those who seek to erect them will do well to select an opportune time. When Catholics are barely suffered to exist is not the season to look for nice recognition. The President was indisposed when the Monument Committee called at the White House, and they were not seen. The indisposition is probably chronic and it should not have been overlooked by wide-awake ladies and gentlemen seeking to do honor to Catholic heroines.—Hartford Transcript.

"YOUR NUNS."

"What a peaceful look there is on the faces of your nuns!" exclaimed a Protestant lady to the Catholic Columbian man. "I love to meet them on the street. It does good. They seem so quiet, so holy, so near to God. I don't know just what it is, but they're well, they're different." A conscience at peace, the state of grace, a simple life, regular hours, useful work, the motive of living for God, and frequent communion—all these had our Sisters to look cheerful, contented and sweet. As the Angel Gabriel declared to the Blessed Virgin Mary that the Lord was with her, so it may be reverently said that He is with them. They are one of the ornaments and glories of the Catholic church.

ELOQUENT ANECDOTE.

Everything printed in Extension Magazine is worth reading. The following anecdote is eloquent: "Some months after I had been working for the President, he was dictating a letter, when he asked kindly: 'Are you not feeling well, Miss M—?' 'I am quite well, thank you. Why?' 'I think you look so tired.' 'Has my work been below par?' I asked anxiously. 'No, but you seem tired—not your active self.' I then explained that I was attending a mission, and arose at 4:15 to get to 5 o'clock mass, made a noon visit to the Blessed Sacrament in a little church nearby and, after office hours, ate supper and hurried to church at 7 o'clock to secure a seat, for the crowds were great. Nothing further was said, but I noticed my work was made lighter, and Saturday I was called to the office and given a week's vacation with full salary, 'because we are glad to have conscientious people in our employ.' Was this a Catholicism? you may ask. Not at all. Both gentlemen were thirty-second degree Masons."

New Jersey Knights recommend the purchase of the house in which Rev. Michael McGivney, founder of the order, was born. It now stands in a suburb of Waterbury, Conn.

A class of seventy candidates received the second and third on Sunday at St. Joseph, Mo. With this addition St. Joseph Council ranks among the largest in the West.

The order made a creditable showing Sunday at the cornerstone laying of the new St. Bridget's church at Logansport, Ind., the Fourth Degree acting as escort to Bishop Alerding.

RAILROAD MEN'S DEMANDS.

The railway freight train service employees in their demand for an eight-hour day state as follows: Railroads have increased their revenue enormously without increasing the expense of moving a train; the work of train crews has increased without proportionate increase of pay. One crew is now doing the work that was formerly done by three or four crews; freight train employees must work days, nights, holidays and Sundays and have no regular hours and little time at home; traction power of locomotives has increased 33 per cent., capacity of freight cars 30 per cent., tons carried in loaded cars 19 per cent., and tons carried by the average freight train 47 per cent. Railroad train crews are not paid a fixed salary and are paid only when they move freight trains from one division to another. They desire a revised schedule based on the moving of a train 100 miles inside of eight hours, with overtime at the rate of time and a half. An eight-hour day with no penalty for overtime would not work, as there would be no incentive for the railroads to reduce working hours.

PARENTS BE CAREFUL.

Parents should be particularly careful about their boys and girls during the vacation period and know where they are day and night and what they are doing.

FOR WOMAN'S EYE.

Cords and tassels are favored for girdles. Fur manufacturers are preparing for an enormous revival in capes. New felt sailor hats have usurped the place of the lingerie chapau. At least a foot deep and almost as wide. The bandings of furs used on coats and suit skirts will be wider than ever.

WORLD'S SERIES CONTEST.

Bob Morris, Mackin Council's star twirler, made a decided spurt in the Twin City popularity contest this week, jumping from fourth to second place, several of his admirers now being busy canvassing in his behalf. Ray Haragon, of the Bertrands, still leads by a comfortable margin, while Secretary Eddie Steinbock and Johnnie Kenaley, of the K. of C., are running in the first division. The showing made by Tim McLaughlin, of the Olympics, last Sunday in the field meet has made him an added starter, an admirer starting him in the race with twenty-two votes. The winners will not have to worry about elimination series, etc., to take a baseball trip in the fall, but will get to see the games that make baseball history. Remember it is easy to get votes. New subscriptions twenty votes each, renewal subscriptions ten each, ballot in paper one vote. The standing to date:

IMPORTANT SERIES.

The Louisville ball club will begin a tie-game series with Kansas City this afternoon, two of the games being in a double-header tomorrow, and both Managers Clymer and Shay will be called upon to show their ability as leaders, these games meaning much in the battle for the pennant. If the Colonels win a majority then Kansas City is as good as out of the race, as they can not make up the loss on the long road trip soon to come. Also in that event the pennant will lie between Indianapolis and Louisville, the latter having the best of the schedule, as all games from September 2 to October 1, the closing day, will be played at Eclipse Park, while the Hoosiers have some away from home, three of those to be played here. Another break in favor of our boys is the fact that after leaving Kansas City they are scheduled for six games at Columbus, who have been easy for them so far, that is unless we are given the unpleasant surprise handed us by the Milwaukee team under its new leader.

FONTAINE FERRY.

An act declared to be the only one of its kind in the world will headline the bill in the theater at Fontaine Ferry Park next week. This bill will be the Chung Ewa Four, a quartette of Chinamen who have gained a big reputation in this country as singers. A former Louisville girl and her partner will be on the bill in Joe McShane and Arrie Hathaway. The dainty duo offers some novel steps in dancing besides entertaining with several song selections. Jack Horton and Mile La Triska, "The Clown and the Human Doll," should be found diverting. Harry Stettner and Edna Hantz will also be on the bill. The big pool is enjoying a great season, and unless we have a drop in the temperature it will report the best season since its opening.

HE TOLD THEM.

A small boy astride of a donkey was taking some supplies to an army camp and got there just as a detachment of soldiers, preceded by a band, was marching past. The lad dismounted and held the bridle of the donkey tightly in his hand. "Why are you holding on to your brother so hard?" asked a group of soldiers who were standing near and wanted to tease the country boy. "I'm afraid he might enlist," said the lad without batting an eyelash.

DOLANS' TROUBLES.

Tom Dolan, the tobacco man, met Tom Dolan, the Twelfth ward Councilman, one Monday and invited the latter to take a ride with him in his new "Henry" which he had just purchased that day and was learning how to operate without the aid of an instructor. After narrowly escaping running down several traffic cops and avoiding collisions with street cars and other vehicles the Ford owner then said he would take his guest home. Councilman Dolan jumped at the proposition, as for the past hour he had been wondering if his accident insurance was paid up and would the Hibernians turn out in large numbers if he didn't come out alive. Down Market street, Twenty-first they sped, but when the new owner attempted to turn in that street toward the Councilman's home at Twenty-first and Portland the auto balked. Nothing daunted, the tobacco man turned his Ford around and went up Market street to get another start at Twenty-first. On the second attempt the auto just kept merrily down past the fateful corner, nothing like a turn being made despite the frantic efforts of the new owner. After trying for an hour, during which time quite a crowd had gathered, with many suggestions offered, the chauffeur gave up in disgust, and went in Twentieth street, where the auto turned easy.

HITS 'EM HARD.

The difference, says Dixie in a recent issue, between the Guardians of Liberty and Knights of Columbus was emphasized several days ago by Senator Nathan P. Bryan. In a speech in South Florida, The Senator was addressing a crowd in which there were a large number of "Guardians" and also Knights. He was exposing the former when he was interrupted by an auditor who said:

"Senator, please tell us the difference between the Guardians of Liberty and the Knights of Columbus." "I will do that," said the Senator. "All who are in the audience who are members of the Knights of Columbus will please arise." Several men arose, and the Senator said:

"That's the difference—one crowd is named after their organization while the other is proud of theirs." The Senator's explanation made a decided hit, and "covers the bill" thoroughly.

GOES TO ROME.

Rev. Fulgence Meyer, recently named for Assistant Postulator of the Franciscan order, and who is known to many in Louisville, will soon sail for Rome, as the new office requires residence in the Eternal City. The business of the Postulator is to conduct and prepare the process of canonization and beatification of the saints of the three Franciscan orders.

ST. EDWARD'S PICNIC.

The annual picnic of St. Edward's church, of Jeffersontown, will be given at Oechsner's Grove, next Wednesday, August 23, and the people of that congregation invite their city friends to come and spend a pleasant day at this country grove. Interurban cars will leave the Jefferson Street Station every half hour from 1:30 o'clock on.

COMING FROM JASPER.

The Catholic Knights of Jasper, Ind., are coming to Louisville on an excursion tomorrow will bring a large crowd. They will be met at the Seventh-street depot at 11 o'clock, and those who do not spend the day with friends and relatives will be shown the city and taken to the ball games in the afternoon.

HIGHLY PRIZED.

St. Patrick's Cathedral in Belfast, Ireland, is the repository of a highly prized reliquary, known as "St. Patrick's hand." It is contained in a massive silver case, shaped like a hand, with the two fingers bent as if in episcopal blessings. Well authenticated accounts say that it was on the altar of the ancient Abbey of Downpatrick, whence it was stolen in the "old, unhappy, bygone times," that it was rescued and treasured by successive Catholic families in the County Down, who at length gave it to the keeping of Father McAlleenan, late of Castlewellan. He in turn bestowed the precious relic on the late Most Rev. Dr. Denvir, Bishop of Down and Connor.

TWO FAVORITES IN THE TWIN CITY LEAGUE.

PONTRICH, Imperials.

MATTINGLY, Knights of Columbus.

TWIN CITY LEAGUE.

The popularity of the Twin City League was attested to last Sunday afternoon when a large crowd attended the annual field meet, but in the opinion of the league officials it should have been larger, many of those who enjoy the splendid games of ball at Shawnee Park throughout the summer not showing their appreciation by being present or contributing to the cause. The results in the field meet were:

Circling bases—O'Laughlin, Olympics, first; Morris, Mackin Council, second, and Killoran, Orioles, fourth.

Long distance throw—Joe Murphy, Bertrand team, first; McIntyre, Olympic, second, and Davis, Mackin Council, third. Murphy threw the ball 315 feet, and McIntyre and Davis threw 303 and 298 feet, respectively.

Relay race—Olympics, first; Bertrands, second, and Knights of Columbus, third. Time, 40 2-5 seconds.

Obstacle race—Deleahanty, Mackin Council, first; W. Murphy, Trinity, second, and McIntyre, Olympics, third. Time, 25 seconds.

The game between the Blues and Reds, all-star teams, was won by the former, the features being the pitching of Mattingly for the winners, the hitting of Kenealey and the fielding of N. Murphy and Burke. The success of the whole affair was due to the untiring efforts of Capt. Reichert, Ed Wolfe and Tom Cline, who labored early and late in boosting the field meet. Tomorrow the league resumes its games at Shawnee Park, the schedule as follows: Orioles vs. K. of C., Bertrands vs. Olympics, Imperials vs. Champs, and Trinity vs. Mackin. Standing to date:
